"MRS, EVERETT" IN A LABYRINTH OF CLEWS.

Identity of the Colonnade Hotel Suicide Not Yet Disclosed.

A Boston Man and His Wife Are Doubtful About Her Being Hattie Pierce.

While at Newburg the Suicide Said She Studied at Vassar Years Ago.

DID MANAGER RICE HIRE HER?

He Says She Strongly Resembles a Girl Who Acted in His First Production of the Eurlesque of "1492."

There was on partial and probably incorrect identification of the Colonnade Hotel suicide yesterday. It was made by a Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Plerce who now live in Charles street, this city, and who formerly lived in Boston, where they say they knew a Hattle Peirce. They thought the young woman who shot herself at the Colonnade Hotel was she.

Pairce, they said, had been the wife of a prominent Boston business man, and had left him for a man named Frank Peirce, with whom she lived as his wife. They did not know what business Pelroe had been in, but both he and the woman disappeared from Boston. He had lived, they said, in the vicinity of Tremont and Castle streets, Boston, but inquiry in that neighborhood has failed so far to reveal any trace of such a person.
